POLICY OPERATOR SAYS CASH WENT TO HINES' CLUB

Tells of Sudden Drop in Arrests For Any Violations

New York, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Joseph "Big Joe" Ison, 47, a West Indian Negro and one-time Harlem policy game operator, testified in Supreme Court today at the conspiracy trial of James J. Hines, Tammany district leader, that money he and other bankers had to turn over to the Dutch Schultz mob was going to "Jimmy Hines' club."

Ison said Hines got $125 a week from the multi-million dollar policy racket for political "protection."

The witness said arrests for policy violations dropped 50 per cent late in 1932 and early in 1933—the period shortly after Hines, according to District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's accusations, entered into a conspiracy with Dutch Schultz to "put the fix" on the racket.

"Big Joe" said the money was recorded on the policy slip books as "fees" for lawyers and bondsmen.

Puzzled By Figures

"I was puzzled at first what the figures meant," he said.

He said he talked it over with George Weinberg and J. Richard (Dixie) Davis, and that one of them told him:

"The money is going to Jimmy Hines' club."

Ison later said that his bank alone, among many other Harlem policy banks, was forced to contribute $125 weekly to the Hines club.

He said that in the spring of 1933 his bank cleared $75,000 but that all the profits were taken over by "Big Harry" Schoenhaus.

"Dixie Davis told me that $10,000 of the money was to go for 'ring' the numbers at the Coney Island racetrack on which the policy pay-offs were made," he said.

Ison said that when he grumbled, Davis asked him: "Don't you think it's worth it?"

A few months later, in the fall, he said, the Schultz mob tapped him again for $2,500 on two occasions.

"Weinberg told me the money was for campaign expenses to elect a Democratic mayor and the party's ticket," he said.

(John P. O'Brien, Tammany Democrat, was defeated by Mayor F. H. La Guardia in November, 1933.)

Jury Stenographer Testifies

Earlier, with one of Dewey's aides accused of brow-beating and "coercing" a witness, the district attorney called Edward Grant, grand jury stenographer, to testify.

Grant was called to swear to the accuracy of grand jury minutes which the witness had challenged.

The stenographer identified the minutes and Defense Attorney Lloyd Paul Stryker conceded their accuracy.

Apparently still incensed at the recantation of the witness, however, Dewey insisted on reading 30 minutes to the Hines jury.

The prosecutor emphasized a quotation by the witness, Julius (Red) Williams, 46, a South Carolina-born Negro and an election captain in Hines' West Harlem ward, that Hines specifically sent him to the policy racket headquarters of the Dutch Schultz mob to get a job.

Recommitted to Prison

Williams was recommitted to Tombs prison last night as a material witness when Justice Ferdinand Pecora raised his bail, at Dewey's request, from $500 to $10,000.

The Negro had accused Assistant District Attorney Saul Gelb of putting words in his mouth and threatening to send him to jail unless he signed a statement, which he protested he was unable to read, linking Hines with the notorious gang overlord, Dutch Schultz.

Reading the jury minutes, Dewey quoted the Negro as having testified that he went to see Geo. Weinberg, a Schultz mobster, and saying: "I told him Mr. Hines told me to come up and see him."

The power of Hines' name in the Schultz racket headquarters, the witness testified, led to his getting a $30-a-week job "doing very little."

JURY COMPLETED

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 19.—(AP)—A jury to try Orelle J. Easton, 25, of Valley City, N. D., for the murder of W. Raymond Dixon, state policeman, was completed today after five days of examination of 225 talesmen. Two alternates were yet to be named.

Looking Ahead

New York, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Scientists of a future age will have information and evidence of the nature of this world of today—if they'll only follow directions.

A "time capsule" will be buried 50 feet in the earth beneath the exhibit building of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company at the 1939 World's Fair.

The copper alloy capsule will contain books and statements describing today's scientific, engineering, industrial, social religious and philosophical achievements, and samples of clothing, motion pictures and photographs—"a cross section of our times."

The capsule will be filled with an inert gas as a preservative.

So that archeologists will know where to find the capsule, copies of a book describing the cache, its contents and its position will be distributed to leading libraries and museums of the world.

HOLY LAND WAR RESUMED: ARABS LOSE TO BRITISH

Jerusalem, Aug. 19.—(AP)—A fresh battle between Britain's scrappy Irish Guards and killed Scotsmen of the Black Watch and an Arab guerrilla band today brought the casualty list for two days of bloody conflict to 65 dead and hundreds wounded.

Today's conflict occurred on the Plain of Sharon and followed closely yesterday's battle on the outskirts of Acre. The two days' fighting was the heaviest the Holy Land has seen in the current reign of bloodshed, which became serious July 5.

Sixty Arabs were killed—50 near Acre and at least 10 in the Sharon battle—and hundreds wounded in the two engagements, while five British soldiers lost their lives. Thirteen Britons were wounded.

The Sharon battle started near Kalkilyeh, an Arab center, when a patrol of Irish Guards was ambushed and a British army motor-truck damaged when it passed over a land mine.

Detachments of the Black Watch, famed Scottish regiment, joined the battle after the Guardsmen had deployed and wirelessly for aircraft and other reinforcements.

One flying officer and one air-craftsman of the Royal Flying Corps were killed when a plane, answering the call for help, crashed near the scene of the battle.

One Irish Guardsman was killed and a sergeant of the Black Watch and four Guardsmen were wounded in the Sharon fight. Two British soldiers were killed and eight wounded in the Acre battle.

Catholics Picket Michigan Church and Parish House to Retain Priest

Vulcan, Mich., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Parishioners of St. Barbara's Catholic church who forcibly prevented departure of the Rev. Simon Borkowski yesterday, the deadline of his transfer to a Wisconsin seminary, maintained a vigil at the church and parish house today.

Leonard Plourde, a spokesman for the parishioners, said the "picketing," now in its sixth day, would not be abandoned until assurance was received that the 44-year-old priest, known to members of his flock as "Father Simon," would remain at the church of which he has been pastor for 15 years.

Three hundred persons assembled yesterday when Father Simon

Representatives Said To Have Given Communist Salute in Spain

Washington, Aug. 19.—(AP)—A witness told a house committee today that Representatives O'Connell (D-Mont) and Bernard (FL-Minn) gave the "regular communist salute" after addressing several hundred American youths fighting in Spain.

Alvin I. Halperin, who told the committee investigating un-American activities yesterday about his experiences in the Spanish loyalist army, said the house member spoke at a dedication of pillars at a hospital at Benicassim, Spain.

"They told us we were fighting for a great cause—democracy—to wipe out fascism," Halperin said. "They gave the regular Soviet salute—a clenched fist in an upright position."

Abraham Sobel, another youth who related his experiences in Spain yesterday, told the committee under questioning by Representative Starnes (D-Ala) that speakers for the Roxbury Workers' club and the American League Against War and Fascism, of which he was a member, solicited his enlistment in the Spanish fighting forces.

The committee later unanimously ordered transmission to the justice department of the testimony of the two young American deserters from the Spanish government army for determination of whether federal law was being violated by Communist agents recruiting volunteers here for the Spanish conflict.

Returns to Stand

Miss Margaret Kerr, official of the better America federation of California, returning to the witness stand, said that in Los Angeles she had seen the same persons at meetings of the American League for Peace and Democracy and the Communist party.

Representative Mason (R-Ill), who has been attempting to link the league with communism, said: "Evidence on file with this committee contains proof—acceptable in any court—that the league was organized by leading communists in the first place, is controlled by known leading communists today x x x denials that it's a front for the communist party can't do away with the testimony that's been presented here."

Mason on Wednesday named eight government officials here who, he said, were league members.

Calls Project a Hotbed

Mrs. Hazel Huffman, speaking for a committee of theatrical workers on relief, told the committee that WPA's Federal Theatre program was being used to spread communist propaganda in New York.

She said the Workers' Alliance, which she described as closely allied with the Communist party, "now dominates" the theatre project.

She said Mrs. Hallie Flanagan, director of the project, participated actively in communistic activities and charged that her interest in things communistic was "being used in the federal theatre project to the detriment of Mount Vernon, Ill., Aug. 19.—(AP)—The city council has voted to spend $300 to determine in court whether it has the right to set a minimum price of 35 cents for haircuts.

The ordinance, passed recently suffered a setback when Justice of the Peace A. A. Lowry ruled the city could not fix haircut prices. Lowry dismissed charges against Lon Dare, accused of cutting hair for 25 cents. City Attorney John A. Kirk said the ordinance was not a "dead issue," that new proceedings might be filed against some alleged violator.

ENGLAND SERIOUS ABOUT ARREST OF BORDER OFFICIAL

No Reason Is Given for Action Taken by Nazi Secret Police

London, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The British government today informed Germany that it "takes a serious view" of the unexplained arrest of Captain Thomas Kendrick, British passport officer in Vienna, by German secret police at the German-Swiss border.

An instruction from the London foreign office, Sir Neville Henderson, ambassador to Germany, has asked the German government for a "full and speedy explanation" of the arrest of Kendrick.

The British official was taken by the Gestapo Wednesday as he and his wife were about to leave Germany on vacation. She was permitted to return to her home in Vienna.

Yesterday Henderson asked the German foreign office for full particulars of the charge against Kendrick and was promised that a full inquiry would be made.

No Reply From Berlin

However, no further reply has been received from Berlin.

Kendrick, who has been passport control officer in Vienna for 13 years, was believed still held in the Hotel Metropole, secret police headquarters, in that city.

In foreign office circles here there was some speculation as to whether Kendrick might have been arrested because he granted more British visas to Austrian Jews than the German government considered discreet.

Another suggestion was that he might have been held because his passport gave him his wartime rank of captain and he had failed to convince the German police that he was not on active military service.

The British government also pressed Italy for information on allegations made in the London press and in the House of Commons to the effect that Premier Mussolini was sending new reinforcements.

PASTOR BEGINS LIFE TERM FOR DEATH OF MAID

Mandan, N. D., Aug. 19.—(AP)—The Rev. Heio Janssen, Evangelical Lutheran pastor at Krem, began a life prison sentence today a few hours after pleading guilty to poisoning his 16-year-old housemaid and firing the parsonage containing her body.

The minister, 51, admitted he killed Alma Kruckenberg because she was pregnant. District Judge H. L. Berry sentenced Janssen at a special court session shortly after midnight. He was taken immediately to the state penitentiary.

The arraignment followed swiftly after Janssen signed a confession before State's Attorney Floyd Sperry of Mercer county admitting he perpetrated the crime Monday and burned his 10-room house that night.

"The devil overcame me," the pastor said impassively. "I did wrong. I have a very good Christian wife and two boys any father would be proud of and I feel only too sorry that I bring such grief to them."

Miss Kruckenberg was one of 10 children in the family of Mr. and Mrs. John Kruckenberg, farmers near Krem, which is located 60 miles north of Mandan. She had been employed at the parsonage since January.

The parsonage burned shortly after Mrs. Janssen had gone to Bismarck for medical treatment. Investigation located the charred body of the girl in the basement and revealed she was pregnant.

Judge Merciful to Wife of Desperado: Expectant Mother

Contrasting "the black side against you," and the "other side of the ledger," Judge Dennis told the blonde, 24-year-old mother, her offense of aiding her husband was "a natural one," and "something almost any wife would do."

The judge took cognizance of her expected child, saying he did not wish "to add to the trouble of your children" by causing her second child to be born in jail. Her 14-months-old son, Charles Bird, Jr., is with her parents in Cleveland.

She was convicted quickly yesterday after her husband pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 4½ years in state's prison.

"ESCALATOR TO DICTATORSHIP" SAYS O'CONNOR

Senator Tydings Asks if Americans Want Men or Cowards

Salisbury, Md., Aug. 19.—(AP)—A major development in Maryland's bitter-fought senatorial campaign was marked today for Sunday, with Senator Millard E. Tydings announcing he would make a radio address then "dealing with matters which have come to your attention very recently."

It was believed Tydings planned a reply to President Roosevelt's endorsement of an editorial in a New York paper which said Tydings was trying to run for reelection "with the Roosevelt prestige and the money of his conservative Republican friends both on his side."

The president's action brought squarely into the open the New Deal fight on Tydings, against whom Rep. David J. Lewis, an ardent New Dealer, is running.

"We need men in congress with backbone," Tydings said last night, "or else you are going to lose your nation. Do you want your senator to be a Charlie McCarthy, to be a rubber stamp or a coward? Or do you want him to be a man, to stand up and fight for what is right?"

GEORGIA SITUATION

Atlanta, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The "request" resignation of a campaign stalwart of the Senator Walter F. George forces from his government job today focused political attention for the second time within a week on Georgia's hard-fought senatorial primary campaign.

Edgar B. Dunlap, active supporter of George and Georgia attorney for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, announced yesterday he had resigned his RFC post at the request of "Claude M. Hamilton, Jr., RFC general counsel at Washington."

The announcement came exactly one week after President Roosevelt, speaking at Barnesville, Ga., urged the defeat of George because of his opposition to some administration measures, and advocated the nomination of Federal District Attorney Lawrence S. Camp, one of three George opponents.

RFC's Allegation

Dunlap, who said the telegraphic request for his RFC resignation "is solely occasioned by my activities for Senator George," added that he would continue to work for the renomination of the senior Georgia senator.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation in Washington said it had asked Dunlap's resignation "because of his refusal to discontinue his political activities."

The announcements, both from RFC headquarters and from Dunlap, brought from Senator Sheppard (D-Tex.), chairman of the campaign expenditures committee, the statement that his committee would look into circumstances surrounding the Dunlap resignation.

O'CONNOR TO FIGHT

New York, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Representative John J. O'Connor, (D-NY) has picked up "the gage which the president has thrown down" and pledges himself to fight the administration "purge" which he calls "an escalator to dictatorship."

"Let's have it out," he said in a broadcast last night. "If the people of the United States desire to extend an invitation to a dictatorship, we should know about it just as speedily as possible."

His speech was a reply to the statement of Roosevelt earlier in the week, calling for O'Connor's defeat in the September primary election. O'Connor, seeking renomination for a ninth term on both Democratic and Republican tickets, will be opposed in the Democratic primary by a "100 per cent New Dealer," James H. Fay, deputy collector of internal revenue.

"It is not the challenge to me personally that matters," O'Connor said. "The president's attack on me and other members of congress is a challenge to America and its present form of government."

"The repetitious disavowal of any desire to become a dictator cannot be taken at full faith when actions evidence the contrary," he said.

"No 'dictator' in Europe would for one moment admit he is a dictator. They all palaver and prate honeyed words about 'democracy' and x x x they all claim to be supported by a 'mandate' from the people."

"This demagogic expression is

SPAIN'S PREMIER IN ZURICH; MAY BE AFTER TRUCE

No Representative of Insurgents Has Been in Switzerland

Zurich, Switzerland, Aug. 19.—(AP)—A secret night automobile trip by Premier Juan Negrin of the Spanish government led to speculation today whether he had come to Switzerland for conferences with representatives of the Spanish insurgent leader, Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

There was no trace in Zurich this morning of the Duke of Alba, insurgent representative in London, whose presence was reported here yesterday simultaneously with that of Dr. Negrin.

The Duke of Alba was reported to have established headquarters at St. Moritz, 90 miles from Zurich and within easy reach of the Spanish premier.

The premier was in Zurich officially as the Spanish representative to the international congress of physiologists, but he left his hotel at 8 o'clock last night for an undisclosed destination.

Although aides said he was going to confer with other delegates, he did not appear at a convention banquet.

Close observers were skeptical that Dr. Negrin would have come to Zurich only for the convention sessions, which close today, so soon after the government had been through a cabinet crisis and while government armies were engaged in a general offensive.

The premier let it be known soon after he arrived that he would decline to talk with anyone not connected with the congress. His hotel rooms were guarded closely by Swiss police and detectives.

REBELS START DRIVE

Hendaye, France, (At the Spanish Frontier), Aug. 18.—(AP)—Spanish insurgents closed the French frontier and loosed a heavy air raid on Barcelona today in preparation for a general offensive.

Insurgent military leaders confirmed that Generalissimo Francisco Franco himself would lead a new drive. Franco named General Juan Vigon, former chief of staff of the northern insurgent army, chief of his personal staff.

French border guards said insurgent authorities had shut the frontier tighter than at any time since the start of the civil war more than two years ago.

Insurgent sources said they expected the offensive would be directed against Catalonia, possibly coupled with a simultaneous drive against besieged Madrid.

Drive Against Winter

The goal of the campaign apparently was to end the civil war before it reaches its third winter.

A number of insurgent officers who have been on leave were recalled to duty effective August 21.

Insurgents said they bombed Barcelona three miles between dawn and noon today. Reports reaching the border said 200 persons were killed and 100 wounded.

Government dispatches said an insurgent thrust against Almaden, key to the productive mercury mining region in southwestern Spain, had been smashed.

On the eastern front of the government also held the offensive, using the heights of the recaptured Pandos mountains yesterday for a series of rapid punches both north and south of Gandesa in the Ebro river valley.

Wounds Fatal to One of Kidnapers

Federal men said the pair had admitted kidnaping Miss Peggy Gross and Daniel C. Fahey, Jr., in St. Louis Friday night and taking them to the outskirts of Minneapolis where they were found and released Saturday night.

UNITED STATES AND CANADA ARE ONE IN THOUGHT

By DE WITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer

New York, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Were it possible for President Roosevelt to tour Canada and get the reaction of individuals to his striking pledge that the United States will "not stand idly by if domination of Canadian soil is threatened" by a foreign empire, most assuredly he would receive this answer:

"And Canada will fight for the United States, too, sir."

I feel certain of the answer, because I discussed that very problem with Canadians in many walks of life, from coast to coast, a couple of years ago.

There was no variation in the reply. That was as might be expected, for Americans and Canadians are as alike in general as blood brothers—they think alike, talk alike and fight alike for the same ideals.

The Dominion long has felt certain in its own heart that its big neighbor—its "good neighbor," as Roosevelt would say—would come to its defense in case of attack. In the mind of the average citizen of either country, Canada and the United States are one country—so far as concerns defense.

There has been, so to speak, a sort of tacit understanding among these same average citizens for mutual defense. Canada will be the happier and easier now, however, at having received definite assurances on this point.

PRESIDENT'S ATTITUDE

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(AP)—President Roosevelt indicated today that no extension of the Monroe Doctrine was involved in his address at Kingston, Ontario, yesterday.

The President arrived here this morning for an indefinite stay. In his Kingston speech, the President asserted that Americans would not stand "idly by" if domination of Canadian soil were threatened by a foreign aggressor.

Newsman at an informal press conference informed Roosevelt of reports the state department in Washington interpreted his speech as an extension of the Monroe Doctrine.

The Chief Executive suggested that his questioners read the original language of the Monroe Doctrine. He called attention to the fact that he had not said anything about Latin America in his Kingston talk.

JAPAN PREPARES TO RECRUIT ONE MILLION YOUTHS

Negotiations With Moscow Over Soviet Border Reach Stalemate

Tokyo, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The Japanese government acted today to make quickly available an estimated 1,000,000 more men for its fighting forces, as negotiations with Soviet Russia for settlement of the Siberian frontier dispute reached a new stalemate.

A new order by the war office simply instructed all males in the recruit division, made up of men between 20 and 34 who have not received active training, to "stand by."

This was taken to indicate they might be called soon and that Japan was planning to throw huge numbers of reinforcements into what would be a grand drive to end the war in China.

The foreign office spokesman made known that conferences in Moscow and Tokyo had failed to reach agreement on selection of a joint commission to fix the Siberian-Korean frontier in the vicinity of Changkufeng.

Agreed August 11

After one month of diplomatic tension and bitter fighting at Changkufeng hill, Russia and Japan agreed in a truce on August 11 to name the commission of two Russians and two Japanese to demarcate the frontier. Both nations claim ownership of the Changkufeng territory.

The foreign office informant added that all Japanese troops had been withdrawn to the south bank of the Tumen river, opposite Changkufeng, but that Soviet troops still occupied the top of the hill in violation of the truce.

The group of Japanese put on call by today's war office order had not hitherto been affected by enlistment or conscription in the China campaign.

Should they be called to the front, they would be given a quick period of training for 40 days to three months.

All males are subject to military conscription, but during peace time not all are ordered to take training. The first, those now under "stand by" restriction, are "recruits."

FUTURE OF AUTO WORKERS' UNION NOW UNCERTAIN

Detroit, Aug. 19.—(AP)—If a conference of "rebel" leaders of the United Automobile Workers of America with John L. Lewis made any headway in unsmiling the union's tangled affairs, it remained a secret today.

Likewise the future of the union itself appeared uncertain, and the various possibilities advanced were as numerous as the spokesmen of opposing factions.

Chief among these suggested possible courses were: Lewis, as head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, might intervene in the union's internal struggle; the U. A. W. A. might ultimately leave the C. I. O. and return to the American Federation of Labor; or, it might become an independent organization.

There was nothing to indicate whether the faction led by president Homer Martin or by his "rebel" opponents would be in the saddle in the end. Two of the four high officers who were expelled by the executive board—Richard T. Frankenstein and Wyndham Mortimer—led the delegation which conferred with Lewis in

"Direct Action" on Chicago Handbooks Continued Last Eve

Chicago, Aug. 19.—(AP)—After visits from the state's attorney's "axe squad", a couple of elaborately-furnished racehorse handbook establishments today looked as if they had been swept by a hurricane.

The 112 Club at that number on East Superior street was the latest to feel the "direct action" campaign started by State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney after repeated failures to gain convictions against handbook operators and employees.

Eight policemen went to work with axes after chasing out 200 patrons, of whom 75 were women. In an hour the interior of the club was a mass of debris.

On the previous day the squad did the same thing to a West Randolph street handbook.

LAWS AND RULERS

In showing how the Roman empire failed, and in attempting to show how passions and prejudices that prevailed at the time of Christ still affect men and make them liable to similar disasters, it is well to note that about the time of the Gracchus brothers, mentioned here a few days ago, the people were saying:

"We need a one-man government."

It is well to note that Rome was at first governed by kings, among whom were the Tarquins whose tyranny caused the people to revolt and establish a republic. As the republic grew in population and extended its boundaries, the common people began clamoring for written laws. Up to that time the laws had been enacted by the consuls, advised by the senate, but owing to the fact that the laws were only in the heads of men, they were subject to various whims, depending upon who was in control and who interpreted them.

So the people said: We need written laws, so we shall know what to expect from day to day.

Accordingly the laws were written down for anybody to see who could read, and this was one of the greatest advances in the history of man. It helped stabilize government.

It is well to note here, also, that certain persons in the United States are now clamoring for extension of power to the president so that we should have what amounts to one-man government. It is well to take note of the fact that the poor and unfortunate, who are most benefitted by written laws, have been threatened by an attempt to reorganize the supreme court, which interprets the laws, and make it a body which would see the laws as the president wants them seen. In effect, if we had a supreme court which would obey the whims of the president, then our written laws would become unwritten. If our laws are to become flexible and subject to one man's desires, then our common people would have lost that blessing for which the common people struggled before the time of Christ.

In a preceding article in this column we recited the facts of two early attempts at farm relief, and stated that the futile efforts of Tiberius and Gaius Gracchus were eventually put through by one of their successors, Marius. Marius was a commoner from the army, put into power because the empire faced a crisis. Marius was a brawler, a booster, but a good general, and from the time he was placed in power to the time of his death the empire faced one crisis after another. Some of them he brought about through his own efforts. Contrary to custom he was elected consul seven times because he kept the people thinking they needed him. When the law stood in his way he nullified it. When individuals stood in his way he nullified them, too.

Marius established firmly the idea that a man could be re-elected consul indefinitely. He established the fact that if one were ruthless enough he could use the army to override the nobles, the common people and the laws. Indeed, to bring this about Marius enrolled slaves and lower degrees of persons in the army contrary to law and custom so that his power was increased. Up to the time of Marius the people had insisted that only men of property were suitable for army service, because they had something to defend. With his rabble of slaves and others, Marius ruled with a high hand and succeeded in bringing the country into disastrous civil war. This was the first of a long series of miseries into which the common people were plunged through one-man government and nullification of the laws.

All this time, however, the empire was growing. The Roman legions fought brilliantly against invaders, and at the same time invaded other lands. At last with the end of Caesar's administration the empire was 4000 miles long, extending from northern England into Persia. It covered the Balkans, the Danube valley, southern Germany, nearly all of France, and dominated a strip as much as 200 miles wide in Northern Africa.

What was the economic and social situation? The Italian peninsula was jeweled by a mighty array of cities and towns already grown old, with their musty traditions and local aristocracy. There were banks, and paved roads in which concrete was an ingredient. France, especially the southern part of that country, was likewise featured by important cities. There were miles and miles of landscape villas. There were schools and college students getting bank drafts from home and spending the money. Residences had hot and cold baths. There were important public buildings. There was even a sit-down strike. There were mints and coined money and there were demagogues.

All the provinces poured a steady stream of gold and goods into Rome. As the famous roads neared Rome the pavements were covered not with volcanic rock, as in the provinces, but with white marble. One citizen in an eastern city of the empire built a stadium 600 feet long, of white marble, capable of seating 50,000 persons.

The rich were living off the conquered wealth of the provinces, and were keeping the poor happy by providing bread and circuses. The bread was a dole and the circuses were chariot races, battle to the death between gladiators, and fights between men and animals. Taxes began to multiply as the stream of wealth from the provinces grew smaller through exhaustion. More and more the people clamored for bread and greater and greater grew the drains upon the treasury.

One emperor generously remitted the taxes (already in default) in a section of one province when he saw that more than half the people were living off the government.

There was constant pressure on the borders, especially to the north. Wave after wave of Germanic barbarians rolled forward and was shattered on the shields of the faithful legions. The ancient inyards fattened off the corpses of the barbarians.

There were demagogues. One of these was a master of the demagogic art. For years a section of the people had been clamoring for citizenship. He increased his power by giving them the rights and privileges of Roman subjects, but there was one thing the new citizens had overlooked. Upon becoming citizens they were subject to inheritance taxes, and how that demagogue fattened himself off this new, rich source of income!

GOT NO ANSWER

Editor—I have received no answer to my letter published on July 28 requesting information from city officials as to reasons for neglect of the street at corner of Monroe and Madison at Ninth St. This dangerous and unnecessary condition still exists. Promises have been made which have not been kept. As a decent citizen I have exhausted every means of getting action and as a last resort have published several letters demanding action or at least an answer to my complaint, but not a peep have I heard. Officials should be servants of the people and not czars, but perhaps I flatter them by calling them czars for their continued silence might suggest similarity to "Kewpie dolls"—cut to look at but unable to talk. Even Charlie McCarthy can talk publicly. Why the silence?

Washington—There is an interesting story behind the fact that the president's social security radio speech carried an extra line not given in the advance press release. The story involves the vanity of a lady; to wit, Madame Secretary Perkins, who seldom misses a bet to promote publicity for herself.

Just before the president delivered his radio address commemorating the third anniversary of the Social Security Act, Madame Perkins made it a point to go over to the White House and read the president's speech.

She found in the speech a boost for Senator Wagner of New York and for Representative Davey Lewis of Maryland, the two authors of the bill. Both are campaigning this fall. Wagner for re-election and Lewis for the senate against Old Deal Senator Tydings. So the president planned to give Lewis, in particular, a big hand.

But this did not meet the approval of Miss Perkins. She promptly blue-penciled the chief references to Lewis and Wagner, merely leaving their names in the speech, then sat down and wrote a nice long tribute to herself.

White House Secretary Steve Early, being in awe of the lady, accepted the corrections, and the president, being in a hurry, accepted the speech. Later when he discovered that the Lewis tribute had been left out, he inserted an extra line for Lewis, in prompt, over the radio.

"Monkey Trial" Prosecutor

Few people outside of Tennessee remember that Tom Stewart, who replaces George ("Marble") Berry in the senate next year, was chief prosecutor in the famous Scopes "monkey trial" thirteen years ago.

With the late William Jennings Bryan helping him, Stewart convicted the Young Dayton, Tenn., school teacher for defying the state law and teaching evolution. The late Clarence Darrow was defense attorney.

Forty-five years old, Stewart has long been active in state politics. He was put into the senatorial race by Senator Kenneth McKellar, with whom Stewart has been closely affiliated politically for many years. Stewart is married and has five children. In his youth he was a crack baseball pitcher and is still an ardent devotee of the game.

Hull vs. Mexico

The diplomatic exchanges between Mexico and the state department have been the cause of considerable apprehension among cabinet members, other than Cordell Hull.

They fear that the president's Good Neighbor policy so carefully nurtured for five years, may collapse.

Inside fact is that some difference of opinion exists regarding the Mexican situation even within the state department. Secretary Hull has been wanting to engage in a vigorous note-writing campaign against Mexico, which some of his advisers have opposed.

The note to Mexico limiting the protest to seizure of American agricultural lands was a compromise between the two groups.

Secretary Hull has become so irked at Mexico that it has become almost a personal vendetta. The question has been discussed among other White House advisers and with the president, but the only opinion they have reached is that Secretary Hull has made the issue a personal one and nothing can budge him.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Dr. Olga Knopf, noted author is quoted in a recent interview as saying women are in some respects the greatest enemies of their own progress because many women despise women and constantly compare them unfavorably with men. They thus force upon other women a lack of self-confidence and make them feel all women are of little value. Dr. Knopf knows so much about this question that I certainly will accept her opinion.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Mother Smith is partly right and partly wrong. Two tests have been devised to test one's ability to appreciate art and, to some extent, beautiful things in general. While far from perfect, these tests indicate that love of beautiful things is to some extent a set of natural, inherited traits and is bound up considerably with ability to notice fine differences between good and bad art—whether in pictures or arrangement of objects in the home, etc. Students who score high on these tests usually do well in art classes.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. This is the world-shaking thought of Frederick H. Rahr, according to the New Yorker, who describes him as "an advisory color engineer." He has tried yellow balls in a Columbia-Ford-ham game with the following results—both physical and spiritual. The umpire fines his work easier in calling close ones; the catcher can make his plans with greater confidence; the runners can see better what the pitcher intends to do; the batter can see the ball better and not only hit it more frequently but avoid being hit. Indeed it was seeing Mickey Cochrane hit by a white ball that inspired Mr. Rahr to think along these important lines. The spectators can see better what's going on and who's going off and why. The only one who seems unconvinced is the pitcher. Copyright, 1938, John F. Dille Co.

KING CARL JOINS THOSE ON BENCH WITH SORE WING

Giants' Pennant Stock
Hits Skids in Neat
Nose-Dive

By SID FEDER

Associated Press Sports Writer
King Carl Hubbell joined Lefty Grove on the sore arm list today, and the New York Giants' pennant stock, like that of the Boston Red Sox before it, hit the skids in a neat nose-dive.

Hubbell, clubbed by the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5-3, yesterday came up with an ailing pitching wing that may necessitate an operation. It will definitely keep him on the sidelines for at least a week or two, and may prevent him from taking his place on the firing line the rest of the year.

Here are the two greatest left-handers of their day, Old Square-Pants and Old Mose—probably the most feared pitching pair in the game in the last six or eight years—and both shelved in the same month. Grove's arm went "dead," and now the Hub has a painful elbow trouble.

There are many who won't put the screwball ace among the all-time southpaw greats. He never had the stuff or the blinding speed of a Grove. But he has playing "brains"; he has been the Giants' meal-ticket for at least five years; he has pitched them into three pennants in that time, and he has a competitive temperament, a coolness under fire, never surpassed in any sport.

Specialist Called

Dr. J. Spencer Speed, the Memphis bone specialist, has been asked to meet the Giants either in Chicago Monday or St. Louis later in the week to X-ray, and if an operation is necessary—that is if a chipped bone is revealed—it will be performed immediately.

Certainly if Hubbell, always the most reliable of the Giant's tossers, is out of action for the rest of the season, or for any length of time, the New Yorkers may just as well wrap up their pennant hopes and pack them in mothballs. They're five games back of the Pirates right now, with the season past two-thirds mark.

Fortunately for Terry's Terriers, their setback yesterday didn't send them farther in the hole, for the Pirates absorbed a 5-1 drubbing at the hands of the St. Louis Cardinals and Lefty Bob Weiland's four-hit flinging.

Yank's Lead Is Stretched

The Yankees, despite a double-header split with Washington, saw their American League lead stretched to nine full games when the second place Cleveland Indians (and Bobby Feller) had their ears pinned back, 9-1, by the St. Louis Browns. Wes Ferrell, making his Yankee debut, outlasted his ex-mates for a 6-5 win in the 11-inning opener. Harry the cast-off Kelley tossed a six-hitter for a 6-3 decision for the Nats in the nightcap.

Throughout the big league program, good pitching abounded. Buck Newsom's three-hitter featured the Browns' win over the Indians, enabling the Browns to climb into a seventh-place tie. Jim Bagby turned in a three-hitter and the Red Sox whitewashed the Athletics, 2-0. Paul Derringer allowed seven hits, chipped in a home run himself, and the Cincinnati Reds ripped the Cubs, 9-1. Long George Gill's eight-hit effort gave the Tigers a 5-1 verdict over the Chicago White Sox.

The bald eagle is found only in North America.

FANFARE

By DON DANIELSON

GAMES TONIGHT

The twin bill at the Airport diamond tonight will get started with the game between Black Farms and Plovman and wind up with the contest between California Market and Dixon Fruit Company.

COURT NEWS

It has been wafted this way that Kieffer and Pierre, the cellar men on the Dixon tennis ladder, got together yesterday afternoon at the high school courts to settle the matter of who should take the bottom rung. Pierre pushed Kieffer into the dark a week or so ago, but yesterday Lester came back for revenge and bounced Pierre to the rock bottom on a 6-3, 11-9 count.

CARLSON TEAM

The Carlson family just misses having a complete baseball lineup and for the family's game with the California Market on Sunday night at the Airport, the brothers had to call for the help of three other players to fill out the required ten men needed for softball. Their choices were very good and Jensen, pitcher for the All-Stars team, will do the hurling while snappy Neuhausen, one of the league's liveliest receivers, is behind the plate. Earl Flanagan, who is an asset to any fellow's club, will play third base. In the opening affair the Dixon girls will play the Walton lassies.

AT ASHTON

Beyers, pitcher-elect for the city All-Stars, took the mound for the California Market last night in the game with Ashton in the neighbor's park but was knocked out of the box and replaced by Morris. But the substitution didn't stem the tide and the local team lost 15 to 5 in the 9th inning affair. Shires Miller is back in the lineup for the Marketeers and will probably appear in the game tonight with the Dixon Fruit company. In the preliminary game last night the Ashton girls defeated the Rochelle lassies by a big margin. Ashton doesn't fool around with its softball and both the fellows and girls have excellent teams which draw big crowds to their fine park. George Stephan is largely responsible.

ALL SET

Following a meeting held at the Telegraph office last night everything is set and rarin' to go for the start of the city tennis singles tournament on Sunday. Seven of the eight players who rated highest on the Dixon tennis ladder attended the meeting last night and pairings were made. Covert and Joslyn who succeeded in nabbing the top two positions on the ladder were seeded to the upper and lower brackets and other players drew numbers for their position. As a result of the drawing, the first round matches are as follows: Covert and Rusk; Ward Smith and Wieman; Sinow and Ken Smith; Quick and Joslyn. All but the finals will be played this week end. On the following Sunday, August 28, the winner will be decided in the best three out of five sets and the Telegraph's bronze cup awarded to the champion.

BURST OF ACTIVITY

With something of a frantic effort the below-the-eight-line men on the tennis ladder fought to get into the coveted ratings yesterday afternoon and make themselves eligible for the tournament which starts Sunday. Kearney was bounced out of the top flight early in the week by Ward Smith and yesterday Charles sought to re-establish himself in a match with Wieman but lost in the attempt after taking the first set. The count was 4-6, 6-2, 6-1. It was a threat. Rosenberger, another ambitious player, tried to get on the inside when he played Ward Smith, a newcomer to the first eight. Smith decided he wanted to stay put and turned back Rosenberger 6-love and 6-3. Ken Smith took a crack at the Number One spot in his match with George Covert but the wind-up found George still perched on top and Ken still at Number Three. The count was 6-0, 6-1.

SOME OF MAGIC 'ROUND FIGHTER HAS VANISHED

New York, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The Brown Buzzsaw was at a dead stop today and while Henry Armstrong started his first real rest since he left St. Louis in a boxer to earn his bread with his fists, challenges flew thick and fast around the little man who is featherweight, lightweight and welterweight champion of the world.

He won his third title from Lou Ambers Wednesday night but some of the magic surrounding his name vanished. His profession saw him at the finish the new lightweight champion, but bleeding, groggy and exhausted—and took heart.

They all want to fight him now. Ambers most of all. He is an ex-lightweight champion today but he was never more popular. Lou at last is getting his due as a courageous and skillful workman, a fighter who took the heaviest blows of Henry the Hammer and was still around at the finish, banging at Henry and dancing away on legs that never grew weary.

"Sure I'd like to fight Lou again," said Henry, very battered. "But I think I have a rest coming. Beside, the doctor tells me it will take at least three months for this cut on my lip to heal. Yeah, it started in training and it opened up again in the fight. That's no alibi, though. Lou gave me a great fight. But with three months rest I can beat him worse than last night."

Henry won't fight until next winter; Manager Eddie Mead is sure of that. When he does it probably will be with Ceforino Garcia, the coast welterweight, and Henry will put his 147-pound title on the line.

Garcia has nominated himself as the No. 1 welterweight contender. He has a right to the post, for he is a big, strong fellow who is a natural welter and not a heavy lightweight. He gave Barney Ross such a going over in their carnival of champions bout that, even though Ross won, he softened Barney up for Armstrong.

Mead also has plans for a featherweight title bout against some outstanding contender, perhaps Ginger Foran in Cleveland in December. But no plans will be completed until Henry returns from a trip to Honolulu and his lip has healed.

CALIFORNIA MAY COP HONORS FOR TENNIS FINALS

Newport, R. I., Aug. 19.—(AP)—An all-California final between Oakland's Don Budge, the defending titlist, and Los Angeles' Joe Hunt, second seeded, became a strong probability today in the Newport casino tournament as the two moved into semi-final matches in opposite brackets.

Budge, nursing an ailing right arm, was paired with Frank Parker of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Hunt was called into action against Sydney Wood of New York.

Budge's arm trouble was not regarded as serious. He described it as slight muscular twinges apparently the result of a light cold.

His chief effect yesterday was to slow down the Davis Cupper's usually lightning service against Wilmer Allison, the Austin, Tex., veteran, and turn their match in to a long struggle that Budge finally won.

Parker, meanwhile, eliminated the Atlanta mite, Bryan Grant, 7-5, 6-8, 6-4, 6-1.

Hunt vanquished the last foreign entry, Yvon Petra of France, 9-7, 6-0, 9-7, while Wood's brilliant shots defeated Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., 4-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-4.

Quarter-finals and semi-finals matches were on the doubles schedule today. Budge and Gene Mako, of Los Angeles, were to meet the winner of the match between Frank Kovacs and Robert Harman, of Oakland, Calif., vs. Wayne Sabin of Los Angeles and Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore. Hunt and Wood were to meet the winner of the clash between Lewis Wetherell of Los Angeles and Robert Kamrath of Austin, Tex., vs. Allison and John Van Ryn, of Austin, Tex.

STORY OF EARLY BASEBALL IN LEE COUNTY IS TOLD

Paw Paw Man Prepares
Special Articles for The Telegraph

Editor's Note: This is the first article in a series of two written by that veteran of Lee county baseball, Arthur Wells of Paw Paw.

BY ARTHUR S. WELLS

My earliest recollections of baseball are when I was 15 or back in 1879. We had what we called the Willow Creek Red Legs. We wore red flannel pants made by our mothers, the belt was blue made by the late J. W. Mayor and we played in our undershirts. And I guess it was just as well, as no team, however good, could steal your shirt if you did not have one.

On the Willow Creek team was Johnny Deughtert, Wade Stevens, Al and Bert Stubbs, Nellie Dawkins, George Horrolett and others. Well, we were taking any country teams that dared to play us when we got a challenge from Paw Paw. We played them at Paw Paw on the old ground called Wheeler's what is now the Gibb's farm, and the old brick kiln stood back of right field. Billy Towne, father of H. R. Towne, used to bat left-handed and when he hit one square over in the brick yards it went for a home run.

Game Was Close

I do not remember the score of that game but it was close, and after the game Paw Paw signed Stubbs, Howlett and Wells. On the Paw Paw team at that time was J. W. Mayor, C. E. Preston, Doc Aird, William Towne, Billy Siglin, Spike Sprague, Bert and I were the battery for two years. Then came the only Jim Southard, the first man to throw a curve in Lee county. Well, Jim was just as good those days as they make them today. I had the pleasure of catching him bare-handed and I myself invented the first catcher's mitt. I cut off the fingers of a pair of kid gloves and stuffed the palms with sponges. It worked fine only when a foul tip got you on the finger, you just stayed in and were lucky that it did not get you in the face.

Bert had no curve, just an over-hand fast ball that was fast with a hop on it and the batters were popping it up most of the time. There was one redeeming trait, you did not have to go up behind the batter until there were two strikes on him or he had got on some way, and if you caught a foul tip the batter was out.

I can remember a funny thing that happened at the Yorkville fair in 1885. George Howlett, William Henning, Jim Southard and I were playing for Plano. We beat Aurora the first day, then beat Yorkville the second day. Well, Jim had a habit of putting over a strike just as he stepped in the box. Most batters would take a foul tip the ball. Along towards the finish of the game, I was walking back to my position, with my back to the ball ground, when Jim let out a yell and I turned just in time to spear a foul tip as it was going by. No fancy catch, just a quick stab, but a little old Irishman standing back of the back-stop said "Be-gorry, we can beat Plano, but Be-Jases, we can't beat Chicago, (he thought we were from Chicago).

Rented A Lot

In 1885 the late John Edwards and myself rented a seven acre lot of Mrs. Susan Detamore. That was just north of where I live at present. We seeded it down and played there only about three years when Ben Frantz came along and bought it and layed out a new street. It was a good ball ground and we played a lot of games in those three years. John Edwards, who was an uncle of Judge Harry Edwards, and was just as good a ball-player as Harry is a circuit judge. He was a very solid built man and very fast, and by the way his son John who lives on the farm, ran the 100 yards in 10 seconds while attending the University of Illinois at Champaign, so you can see there is something in heredity. I rate Johnny Edwards as one of my best second sackers, a great batter and he could bat from either side. I remember a game we won playing on the old Dixon college grounds. We had a pitcher from Chicago for that game and he was good. A Dixon man stole second and we had him five feet, but he let out a roar and said that John did not touch him. The umpire called him safe. When the inning was over John said to me, "the next man that comes down will know that I touch him." Well, as luck would have it, he got on again and promptly started for second. My throw was high and Johnny caught it in his bare hand and with the same motion, swung down and backward and hit the fellow in the head. He dropped as if hit with an axe, and when he came to, (in a minute or two), and got up, he started to beef at John, and Johnny said, "Did I touch you that time?" He took a look at John's 185 pounds of muscle and said no more.

One little incident on John. We were playing Wenona, Ill., in 1888. Johnny hit deep to short, the short stop made a wide throw to first and the first baseman could only knock it down. It fell in fair territory and John, returning to first after beating it out, picked up the ball and handed it to the first baseman, who promptly tagged John out. Well, right here was the birth of a sit-down strike. Johnny sat down on first base sack and it was several minutes before he would give up and Johnny said it was a dirty trick to play on a player when helping him out.

MAXIE SAYS—"You'd never think, looking at this happy picture, that the Hickledorfs were awful mad at me just a minute ago. Course it wasn't their fault—the awful hot weather had spoiled their dinner—and I was the only one around to pick on. Mr. H. phoned Otto to take me home. And good old Otto brought them some cool, frosty bottles of Stag as a peace offering. Boy, is Otto smart! He knows everybody's got for Stag ... at mealtimes especially."

What to drink with summer meals? Stag Beer, of course! Its gentle flavor and sparkle add just the touch that makes food taste best. The reason for Stag's goodness lies in its formula, in which carefully selected grain, and patient brewing produce a dry, never "sweet," beer.

Next time you discover that the meal you're facing doesn't tempt you, send a hurry call to the ice box for a cool bottle of Stag. Let its light, mellow tang perk up your summer-time appetite from first to final course. Call your nearby Stag dealer for a case of this famous lager now!

OBITUARY

Ora Elizabeth Mall was born, May 13, 1898, the daughter of John C. and Minnie E. Mall. At the time of her death she had reached the age of 40 years, three months and three days.

On August 10, 1921 she was united in marriage to Leonard A. Petrie and to this union were born three children, Raymond, 16; Leona, 15; and Donald 11. Besides her family she is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Mall, two sisters, Mrs. Irma Erb of Bradford and Mrs. Alice Burhenn of Nachusa, and a host of relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Hick's funeral home, conducted by Rev. Parke O. Bailey of the Ashton Evangelical church. Comforting hymns were sung by Mrs. Will Black and daughter Miss Marie, accompanied by Miss June Hatch at the piano. Burial was in the Ashton cemetery.

Her death was caused by inhaling carbon monoxide gas from the automobile exhaust in the garage at their farm about two miles south of town.

Her body was found about 7 o'clock Tuesday morning by her 11-year old son Donald. Apparently after breakfast she had gone to the garage, closed the door, started the engine and crawled under the car with her head near the exhaust pipe opening.

Coroner Dr. Kenyon Segner conducted an inquest Wednesday morning at the Hicks funeral home. The jury was composed of Postmaster George Fruit, foreman, Wesley Eberly, Harold Zoeller, Mayor George Spangler, Clyde Speck, and Leland Blocher. A verdict was returned that death was caused by inhaling gas with suicidal intent while temporarily insane. No apparent reason can be found.

Mrs. Cooke, daughter of John F. Hahn, Evanston real estate man, had been taken out for a drive during the afternoon by Miss McGuire and several hours later they were found lying side by side on the banks of the Kankakee river in Bird park.

Sgt. White said the pistol was washed downstream. Police expected to recover it today.

It was the second time in six days that tragedy struck the Hahn home. The real estate man is in Philadelphia to bury his son, John F. Jr., who died last Saturday. Mrs. Hahn died last April.

Mrs. Cooke entered the Manteno hospital 10 days after the death of her mother.

Aunt Seemed Normal.
"She was responding very well to treatment," said Dr. Ralph Hinton, managing director. "Mrs. Cooke was well behaved, a non-violent patient. Her aunt seemed perfectly normal when she called in the afternoon."

After being given permission to take her niece for an airing, Miss McGuire called a taxi and the two women drove to Kankakee and later to Bird park where they dismissed the cab.

Frank Bigger, the driver, returned later in the evening to pick them up. As he was driving into the park, Bigger said he heard three shots, then a pause, and a fourth shot.

Bigger rushed to the river bank

QUESTION MARK AROUND PARTY HARMONY TALK

Courtney Refuses to Co-operate in Any Way With Kelly-Nash

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Developments at state fair Governor's Day left Illinois Democrats wondering today whether their factional troubles have been entirely settled for the forthcoming state convention and the fall campaign.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney of Cook county, by failing to appear at yesterday's party ceremonies, put a question mark around recent harmony efforts climaxed when Governor Horner and Mayor Edward J. Kelly proclaimed from the same platform that they would go down the line for the full party ticket in the November campaign.

In Chicago, Courtney issued a statement saying:

"I called the governor on the telephone to pay my personal respects. I have consistently refused to take part in any political program that includes the Kelly-Nash leadership."

Courtney was the governor's chief lieutenant in Cook county in the Horner organization's successful clash with the Kelly-Nash forces in last spring's primary.

County Judge Edmund K. Jardecki and Benjamin S. Adamowski, young Democratic legislator, were others of the Horner Chicago leaders who stayed away from yesterday's rally.

See Harmony Convention.

Mayor Kelly's flat assertion that the Chicago organization was "behind the ticket to the last man" was seen in most quarters as insuring that the Sept. 8 state convention here would be harmonious, regardless of the import of Courtney's action.

By superior force of delegate strength, the Kelly-Nash leaders might have controlled the convention and the platform-drafting, but the harmony declarations yesterday apparently minimized the prospect of a factional dispute on the convention floor.

Sharp attacks made on each other by Richard J. Lyons, Republican, and Scott W. Lucas, Democrat, left no doubt that their campaign for United States Senator would be one of the more bitterly fought in recent years.

Lyons, in his Republican Day oration, touched a new subject when he accused the Horner administration of spending a "huge" fund to nominate Lucas and of collecting another war chest to elect him through formation of the Illinoisians, an association for assessment of state employees.

Lucas challenged Lyons to say what, if New Deal laws under Republican attack were repealed, he would substitute for them. The Democratic nominee charged Lyons was engaged in campaign "buffoonery."

In India, after the wedding ceremony, the bride and the bridegroom are tied together by the corners of their garments to signify that they are united for life.

In early times cakes of salt were used for money in Tibet and Abyssinia.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT HERE

Rochelle—On Sunday, August 21, the Rochelle Tennis club will act as host at the Rock River Valley Tennis league tournament to be played here on the new all-weather courts.

Play in the tandem event will introduce tennis under floodlights in northern Illinois, as the tournament, a one day event, will start at 10 a. m. and conclude with the championship match about 1 o'clock under the newly erected lights. In case of rain, Vincent Carney, tournament manager, has announced that the event will be held the following Sunday, August 28.

Mrs. Carl Bartling of Rockford, who has many friends in Rochelle, is general chairman of the convention.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED
Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Fowler announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Lillian, to Arthur Hoogheem, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hoogheem of Fulton, Ill.

The ceremony will take place in this city on Saturday, August 27.

The bride-to-be has been an employee of the Whitson Dry Goods Co. for the past two years. The young couple will make their home in Clinton, Iowa, where Mr. Hoogheem has accepted a responsible position.

CRESTON SCHOOL OPEN
The fall term of school at Creston will begin on Tuesday, Sept. 6. The following teachers have been employed: Howard Brett, superintendent; biology, 2; algebra, 1; commercial geography and shop, Binkley Mades of Polo, grades 5, 6, 7, and 8; Clarissa McLaughlin of Oak Park, English 1, 2, and 3; typing, 1; history, 1; Stanley C. Roe of Grey Eagle, Minn.; geometry, algebra, 2; science, 1; public speaking and coaching, Louise Myers of DeKalb, music, civics and economics, Yvonne Sanderson of Lee, grades 1, 2, 3, and 4.

SCOUT SWIM CONTEST
Teams of Boy Scouts from all parts of Lee and Ogle counties will participate in the annual district swimming meets at Spring Lake on Saturday afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock. Contests will be held in all divisions of swimming, life-saving and diving. There will also be demonstrations in any under-water activity that Troops care to specialize in.

The public is urged to attend this meet and see the Scouts in action. The winning teams from each district will represent their district in the Blackhawk Area council swimming contest at the pool in Fairgrounds park in Rockford on Wednesday, August 24.

SWIMMERS TO COMPETE
The Spring Lake swimming team, under the direction of George Linnemeier, will compete with northern Illinois teams at Sycamore on Saturday, Rochelle has an excellent squad of aquatic stars, all of whom will take part in Saturday's contest.

On Tuesday, August 23, the members will go to Peoria, where they will take part in an all-Illinois swimming meet.

INTEREST IN CORPS
Considerable interest and enthusiasm is being displayed by the members of the local Sons of Veterans drum and bugle corps, as evidenced by the increased attendance at each drill practice. Drill Master Forrest Keiley has spared no effort to develop an organization of which all Rochelle may justly be proud.

The youngsters too, have begun to realize their privilege in being a member of such an organization and are working hard to make a creditable showing for their home town.

Awards in the form of pins are being presented every three months for patriotism, citizenship, discipline, leadership and legionism. Upon receiving the five separate pins, members may turn them in and receive a large official medal, heavily decorated, bearing the five insignia awards.

Plans have been made for the local corps to be present and drill at the following events in the next week:

August 18—Hinckley, parade and drill.
August 21-22—State convention of Legion at Rockford.
August 25—Farmers picnic at Rochelle.

In addition to the regular drill practice each Monday and Thursday evenings at 7 o'clock, lasting one hour, arrangements have been made with W. Edwards of Hinckley to be in charge of the music. He will meet with the corps on Friday evenings at 7 o'clock at the Legion hall.

To Legion Convention
The 18th annual department convention of the American Legion auxiliary, which opens next Sunday at Rockford, is looming large as the event of the month. The 3-day meeting coincides with the American Legion state convention.

By MAX SALTMARSH

THE CHARACTERS
Hugo Stern, handsome author, living on the French Riviera.
Archie Lumsden, myself, Hugo's friend.
Rene Geiss, a singularly unpleasant cartoonist.

Yesterday: From a waitress in the Bar Alsacien we secure Eve's lucky penny and learn that Eve fled from a dark man whose right index finger was missing.

Chapter 11

The Beautiful American

Hugo started in pursuit of Geiss' red car at a breakneck speed. He was a magnificent driver but a trifle too reckless for my liking at the best of times, and the pace he was setting would normally have made my blood run cold. But now I found myself yelling at him to go faster.

The road was heading out into the country. Soon it seemed that we were running onto a cape, for I could see blue water on either hand, and as we climbed, Hugo slackened speed a trifle.

"Now which will it be?" he soliloquized. "The hotel itself or Eden Roc? I hate to damp your expectations, but it's more than likely we're about to surprise a simple rendezvous with a pretty lady."

"Baron Stahl is staying at the hotel," I reminded him, but he shook his head.

"No, no. The man's devilish clever and he won't take unnecessary chances. From now on it's a case of 'Geiss and Baron scarce regret that they must be strangers yet,' as the old song says."

As he spoke he pulled in under the lee of a rough wall and I climbed out after him. We were on the crown of the cape. To the left a closed gate and an imposing driveway led to a vast building that I guessed to be the hotel. Straight ahead another gate, half open, gave on a winding path descending to shrubbery, through which I caught a glimpse of a long, low building. A painted name on one gatepost told me that this was Eden Roc, and next minute I saw, parked with a dozen other cars under a clump of pines to the right, the red Delage.

"Well, well," said Hugo, strolling across to her. "Our friend has been driving hard, to judge by the dust he's collected." He drew an exploring finger across her bonnet. "And red dust, too," he added on a different note. "That means he wasn't traveling the main road. Let's have a squint at the gasoline gauge. If your young henchman was right, that ought to tell us something."

He bent his big shoulders over the dashboard and whistled softly. "Almost empty!" said he. "Archie, either he's got a leak in his tank or he's traveled farther than we have this afternoon."

I had leaned over his shoulder to have a look myself, and now I slid a hand gently down the side of the cushion. "Even into Italy and back," I added, fishing out a small, blue-gray packet of cigarettes. "Uso Egiziano aren't sold this side of the frontier."

He nodded, momentarily preoccupied. "Italy it must have been, but not one of the coast towns, and he wouldn't buy these if there was anything more exotic to be had. But where did he go, and whom did he see when he got there? I'd give a lot for a heart-to-heart talk with our gentleman."

"You won't get it," I retorted. "The minute I set eyes on that bird I'm going to crown him."

"You'll do nothing of the sort," he answered tartly. "You'll have the goodness to remember that more than your simple pleasures are involved. Express a mild surprise, at his faulty memory, if you must, but leave the rest to me."

As he spoke, he was leading the way down the winding path and into the little building and descended a kind of ladder to a long, narrow, green-walled room with a well-stocked bar at one end.

A Pretty Sight

The place was built on the brink of a little cliff that fell sheer from the windows to where, far below, the sapphire sea surged and bubbled round jagged black rocks. From a door beyond the bar a flight of steps led down to the water's edge, and there were terraces leveled from the rocky pinnacles crowded with sun-bathers on gaudy orange mattresses.

There was one in particular who attracted my attention, a short, paunchy, dark-skinned fellow, whose costume consisted solely of abbreviated green bathing trunks. I watched him for a moment, then he turned and glanced upwards at the windowed terrace and I saw that it was Baron Stahl.

"Well," said Hugo at my elbow, "what'd you think of the playboys of Europe? Tehe are more millionaires to the square inch in this bar than anywhere else in the world."

I jerked my thumb towards the window. "The only one that interests me," I said, "is displaying his unbuttoned person on the rocks down there. But where's his partner in crime?"

"There he sits," Hugo replied. "I followed the direction of his pointing finger and saw the man we were looking for, squatting, solitary, on a pinnacle of rock overhanging a small jade-green pool, strangely like a morose and brooding bird of prey."

"What's he up to?" I pondered. "And what do we do now?"

Hugo grinned. "One answer does for both questions. We wait here till we find out." He broke off sharply. "Hello," said he on another note, "there's a pretty sight."

A small speed-boat had come into view, swooping down in a graceful arc toward a jetty on the right, and in its wake, skimming on a pair of water-skis and straight and beautiful as some statue of Praxiteles, came a girl in a white bathing-suit, her arms outflung to control the guide-ropes from the boat. The boat drifted casually alongside the jetty, and she climbed on shore. And then she looked up and I got the shock of my life.

She was staring straight up at the open windows where we stood, as if she were looking for someone, and for an instant I had a clear view of her face, with the wide, dark eyes, the delicate tip-tilted nose, and the warm, red mouth.

I gasped, feeling as if I had taken a punch in the wind. "Hugo, she's the living image of—"

Ottile Wills

He trod on my foot, accurately and a good deal harder than was necessary. "Of someone who isn't living," he finished for me. "Take a reef in your tongue, can't you? We mustn't speak that name here, and what's a casual likeness?" But I noticed that his eyes never left the girl's face and he was white under the sun-tan.

She had left the jetty now, and an elderly woman in the black uniform of a lady's maid was swaddling her in a thick white woolen wrap, when suddenly, from just under our window, sounded a voice like an angry foghorn. "Ottile!" it bawled. "Will you come here this minute? You'll catch your death of cold!"

I looked down, straight on to a head covered with a shock of iron-gray hair, set on a pair of broad shoulders. The voice had definitely emanated from the head, and as I watched, its owner emphasized his point by thumping violently on the naked rock with a formidable-looking, rubber-tipped walking-stick.

The girl waved back at him, laughing; then with a leisurely grace that was very pretty to see, she strolled toward him, wrapping her white robe more closely about her.

"Why uncle!" she said, in a deep, husky voice that carried clearly to my ears, "it isn't as cold as all that!"

A man had come up and was standing behind her, a stocky, swarthy man in green bathing trunks. High up as we were, I could see the uncouth mat of black hair on his chest and the obsequious smile on his fat little face. "Baron!" she said, and all the laughter had gone from her voice. "How did you get here so soon? It's only ten days since we said goodbye in New York!"

The short man bowed from where his waist should have been. "It is so simple," he explained, but on a lower key, so that I had to lean out and strain my ears to catch his words. "I say goodbye to you in New York, and five minutes later I get a cable calling me to Paris on business. You cross in one fast ship—I in another. I transact my business and say to myself I like a little holiday. I come here and have the surprising fortune to meet with you again!"

"Most surprising," she said dryly, "considering that my uncle told you himself where we were going." She drew her robe closer still. "I believe I am cold after all," she informed her relative. "I'll meet you in the bar." And in a flash she was gone, running toward the foot of the stairs.

I looked at Hugo. "He followed them here!" I said under my breath, and received his foot with still greater force on my instep.

"What your mouth wants is adhesive tape!" he said bitterly. "Come over and have a drink."

The crowd at the bar had thinned and we found a vacant place at the counter. "Tell me, Charles," said Hugo, as the barman set a couple of White Ladies before us, "who's the old gentleman in black down below there?"

The man's face lit up. "That one, Mr. Stern?" said he. "The old American gentleman? Why, that is Mr. Wills. And the young lady is his niece, Miss Ottile Wills. Very pretty, eh?"

Hugo whistled softly. "You mean Virgilio Wills?" he asked, and when the man nodded, "Archie that's devilish interesting. That's Virgilio Wills, the American banker, as rich as Croesus, but much more human."

I fumbled for his foot on the bar-rail and made satisfactory contact with it. "What your mouth needs," I retorted, with a beautiful feeling of being all square at the turn, "is an oversize bath-towel stuffed into it. Can't you see she's here?" (Copyright, 1938, Max Saltmarsh)

Extortionist is Sought by Police

Chicago, Aug. 19—(AP)—A 12-year-old boy who was paid a quarter by a stranger to deliver a note was held for questioning by police today when the message turned out to be a demand for $1,500. The boy, Milton Zuda, son of a gypsy family, said he was walking just north of the loop yesterday when a man handed him a note and a quarter and told him to give the message to Isadore Lasko, owner of a butcher shop in the neighborhood.

The note directed Lasko to deliver the money to a certain spot before noon Saturday.

After reading the letter, Lasko seized the boy and called police.

Brain Twizzlers

By PROF. J. D. FLINT

"I'M GOING TO GIVE YOU A GROUP PICTURE OF THE FACULTY!"

The history teacher was winding up a talk on the life and times of Augustus Caesar. A young fellow jumped up and shouted, "Mr. Jones, you are wrong. That last statement isn't true. Read it again." The teacher, startled at this, spoke again, "Augustus Caesar, dressed in flowing toga, with a wreath on his head and sandals on his feet, ended his fiery speech. The next day he died, August 19th, 14 A. D., in his seventy-seventh year. He was born September 23rd, 63 B. C."

The teacher said, "Well, young man, what's wrong with that?" The boy told him. Assuming that the dates are correct, what was wrong with it?

Answer to Yesterday's Twizzler
The city man had used 43 bushels which, rightly, would be his share, three-fifths, of the number of bushels to be divided which would be, therefore, 73. This would give the owner 30, two-fifths of the number instead of 18.
